THE 10 BIGGEST NEWS STORIES OF 1997

1. A Hart-Breaking Decision

When the history of the war between the WWF and WCW is examined, this will surely be listed as one of the turning points. Bret Hart, his new contract with WCW just weeks from going into effect, was set to defend his WWF World title against Shawn Michaels at Survivor Series. But something strange happened on his way out of the WWF. Vince McMahon apparently took it upon himself to convince referee Earl Hebner to ring the bell while Hart was in Michaels' "sharpshooter," a decision that would ensure that Hart would not leave Montreal, let alone the WWF, with the World title. A shocked and indignant Hart spat upon McMahon and physically attacked him in the dressing room. The feud between the two became a "He Said/He Said" verbal war with Vince giving his version of the events on WWF television, while Bret took to the Internet. But if you flesh out all the innuendo and bitterness, one sad fact remains: A 14-year relationship was left tattered, torn, and perhaps beyond repair in a mire of deception and misunderstanding. There is no lesson or moral. The WWF will go on, as will Bret Hart.

2. ECW Enters The World Of Pay-Per-View

ECW's mission over the past few years has been to expand beyond its cult following and become a national force. It took a major stride toward that goal when it held its first pay-per-view, Barely Legal, on April 13. While its PPV "universe" wasn't as large as that of the Big Two (only one of the two PPV distributors offered the event), ECW still achieved a buy rate of .26. Not bad considering the WWF had achieved a .35 with a recent In Your House with a larger potential audience and massive advertising. Barely Legal offered a true alternative to the "same old same old": Veteran Terry Funk won the ECW title after defeating Raven in a bloodbath; Bill Alfonso switched allegiance from Taz to Sabu; and Rick Rude made his triumphant return by revealing himself to be the "burr under Shane Douglas' saddle." Followup pay-per-views Hardcore Heaven and November to Remember did not fare as well critically or technically, but the persistence that brought ECW to this level could carry the federation to greater national acceptance in the coming year.

3. A "Stone-Cold" Rash Of Injuries

When Steve Austin suffered "spinal shock syndrome" after being piledriven by Owen Hart at SummerSlam, it was feared that his career had been ended. Austin managed to come back, though not until he signed a medical waiver with the WWF and not with the full blessing of his doctor. The risk of injuries is inherent in any contact sport, professional wrestling in particular. But while other sports continually develop new equipment and rules designed to protect their athletes, the trend in wrestling has been toward more lax rules enforcement, greater violence, and more potentially hazardous maneuvers. The injury list continues to grow at an alarming pace with Ahmed Johnson, Faarooq, Marc Mero, Bret Hart, Rey Misterio Jr., Syxx, Perry Saturn, Masa Chono, and Ric Flair among the stars who were forced to the sidelines for extended periods of time over the past year. There was even one ring fatality, as Plum Mariko died after her head was driven into the canvas by a Mayumi Ozaki Liger bomb in August.

4. We Hardly Knew Ya ...

Nineteen ninety-seven saw more deaths within the sport than any year in recent memory. Particularly disturbing were the deaths of two wrestlers still in their primes, Plum Mariko, 29, and Brian Pillman, 35. While the death of the Mariko, a Japanese female star, went largely unnoticed in the United States, shockwaves were felt around the wrestling world when Pillman's body was found in his Bloomington, Minnesota, hotel room on October 5. At first it was believed that he was the victim of a drug overdose or the effects of his frequently used painkillers. The wrestling world was greatly relieved to find out that he had actually died from "natural causes," arteriosclerotic heart disease. Wrestling also lost many of its biggest names from the past, among them: Bulldog Brower, Bulldog Bob Brown, Dr. Jerry Graham, Dale Lewis, Dr. Bill Miller, Larry O'Day, Danno O'Shocker, Stan Stasiak, Jeep Swenson, Jesus Torres, Fritz Von Erich, and Stanley Blackburn.

5. Dennis Rodman's Wrestling Debut

As if the New World Order wasn't filled with enough thugs, Eric Bischoff and Hulk Hogan's successful recruitment of the Chicago Bulls' Dennis Rodman made major headlines in nearly every major newspaper around the world. "The Worm" was a perfect addition to the NWO. He was in his element, where acting like a punk was encouraged and rewarded. His eagerly anticipated debut at Bash at the Beach saw him teaming with Hogan to face WCW loyalists Lex Luger and The Giant. Rodman surprised many by executing a few decent wrestling maneuvers, and even more surprisingly, he was not the weak link in the NWO chain on that night. It was Hogan who lost the match for the team, when he submitted to Luger's "rack."

6. Eric Bischoff Stripped Of Power

The question became, "What does a guy have to do to get fired around here?" Executive Vice President Eric Bischoff turned against his employer, WCW, to join the rival New World Order. He kept his job. In his position, he abused his power, stripped titles from wrestlers at will, and generally caused chaos wherever he went. He kept his job. Finally, the news pierced through the multiple layers of bureaucracy at CNN Center all the way to Turner Sports President Dr. Harvey Schiller. While admitting that Bischoff's contract is iron-clad (wouldn't you love his lawyer?), Schiller still held the power to suspend him of his active responsibilities. And Schiller did just that, live on Nitro. Bischoff holds the title, but his "successor," James J. Dillon steers the ship that continues to be at war with the NWO. Many felt that with Bischoff's loss of his executive suite, the NWO would have little to do with the deposed veep. But while Bischoff had little power to flaunt, he still remained a vital and influential member of the Order. In fact, he became even more abusive and dictatorial on Nitro. Memo to WCW: About firing this guy ...

7. The USWA Ceases Operations

While independent promotions have come and gone through the years, the Memphis-based USWA had always held its ground as a solid independent that put on exciting cards and fed a steady stream of talent to the Big Two. Ultimately, however, legal machinations forced the USWA to shut its doors. Still pending is a $1.4-million legal suit brought by Cleveland businessman Mark Selker alleging that he was the victim of a "unethical and deceptive business practices" in the June 1997 sale of the company by Jerry Lawler and Larry Burton. As Lawler, who maintains his innocence, focuses on his WWF duties, another promotion has emerged from the rubble left by the USWA: Music City Wrestling. New memories are being forged from the old. But that is all that remains of the USWA. Memories.

8. The Disbanding Of The Horsemen

Arn Anderson did not want his career to end like this, nor did he want this to be the legacy of The Four Horsemen. His retirement speech was to be a memorable event that would live on in the annals of wrestling history. It was not meant to be fodder for an offensive skit put on by the New World Order. Anderson left his active career with quiet dignity that turned to indignation as his hand-picked successor, Curt Hennig, turned against his comrades. That chain of events led to Flair voluntarily disbanding the group for the first time in the organization's 10-year history.

9. Randy Savage Joins The NWO

Once believed to be the gutsiest and most loyal representative of WCW, Randy Savage caused a great deal of confusion early in 1997, when he became a "free agent" and hung out with Sting. By late-February, he had made his intentions clear. He couldn't beat the NWO, so he joined it. The loss of Savage tipped the balance of power toward the NWO and gave them momentum that continues today. For Savage, there was a bonus on top of the "perks" of membership: Elizabeth. But this reunion with his ex-wife was a far cry from their WrestleMania XII tear-jerker. The two became professional wrestling's Bonnie and Clyde, only they prefer spray paint to machine guns.

10. A "Mole" In Philly

Tod Gordon founded ECW in 1992, and it was his vision, coupled with Paul E. Dangerously's creativity, that elevated the federation to great prominence. ECW had an ability to foster talent, but keeping that talent was another issue. Several ECW wrestlers left for the deep-pocketed WCW in 1997, and that was philosophically viewed by the promotion as an off-handed compliment. Soon, however, there was growing speculation that WCW had a source within ECW who provided contract information and encouraged wrestlers to seek out WCW promoters when they were legally available. "Who's the mole?" became a popular question on websites and in chat rooms. When the wrestling "Clue" game ended, fans realized that it was Mr. Gordon in the office with the hotline to Atlanta. Gordon was making a covert arrangement to move a number of wrestlers to WCW with him in an NWO-style takeover. The deal would have likely happened had not an ECW wrestler suffered a "change of heart" and revealed the plan to Dangerously. Gordon quietly departed the company.

1997: THE YEAR IN WRESTLING

In this section, we provide an overview of some of the more memorable events of the year just passed. For a look at more memorable dates throughout wrestling history, please turn to page 94.

January 4: Shotgun Saturday Night debuts at the Mirage Nightclub in New York. The Sisters of Love make their first and last WWF appearance and Marlena reveals her "assets" to The Sultan.

January 19: "Stone-Cold" Steve Austin wins the Royal Rumble after eliminating Bret Hart. Austin was eliminated previously by Hart, but WWF officials did not see it.

January 20: Randy Savage returns to WCW as a free agent. He stages a sit-in on Nitro.

January 24: Goldust wrestles two matches in one day. He loses to Hunter Hearst Helmsley in the WWF and goes on to defeat Lance Diamond in Pennsylvania Championship Wrestling.

January 25: The New World Order promotes Souled Out, its first pay-per-view. Even though the NWO wrestlers were largely successful, the show itself was a critical failure ... Savio Vega turns against tag team partner Ahmed Johnson and joins The Nation of Domination at Madison Square Garden during a match against the NOD's Faarooq and Crush.

The NWO painted an ugly picture at Souled Out

January 27: Referee Randy Anderson is fired by Eric Bischoff after having declared the Steiners winners and new WCW World champions in a match against The Outsiders at Souled Out. Anderson had come out of the stands to make a three-count when original referee Nick Patrick was knocked out. He would be reinstated several weeks later.

February 13: Weeks after winning the WWF World title, Shawn Michaels relinquishes the belt on a live Thursday Raw Thursday, citing a knee injury and the loss of his "smile."

February 17: After Bret Hart's WWF World title loss to "Psycho" Sid Vicious, the "Hitman" physically and verbally attacks Vince McMahon.

February 23: Randy Savage officially joins the New World Order after attacking Roddy Piper and causing the "Rowdy Scot" to lose his SuperBrawl World title match to Hulk Hogan.

February 24: ECW wrestlers debut on Raw one week after Jerry Lawler's diatribe criticizing the independent federation. Paul E. Dangerously serves as color commentator and heavily plugs Barely Legal, ECW's first PPV ... The Road Warriors return to the WWF, beating The Headbangers.

March 16: Sting makes his intentions and loyalties clear when he attacks his so-called "comrades" in the New World Order at Uncensored pay-per-view.

The Sandman drops in on Terry Funk at Barely Legal

March 25: Two nights after WrestleMania XIII, Bret Hart turns rulebreaker in a speech filled with hatred and bitterness toward American wrestling fans. He then reunites with his brother Owen and brother-in-law Davey Boy Smith to form The New Hart Foundation.

April 6: Scott Steiner is arrested at Spring Stampede after he accidentally hits a police officer during a locker room scuffle with Kevin Nash ... Ken Shamrock debuts in the WWF by defeating Vernon White.

April 11: Big Van Vader is detained by authorities in Kuwait after he attacks Bassam Al Otham, host of Good Morning Kuwait, after taking offense to Otham's questions ... Hulk Hogan is pinned by Jacques Rougeau in a non-title match at the Molson Centre in Montreal.

April 13: ECW finally debuts on pay-per-view with Barely Legal. The event garners an impressive .26 buy rate.

April 20: The Undertaker throws fire in the face of Paul Bearer in Rochester, New York, at In Your House.

April 21: Acting under the authority of Turner Sports President Dr. Harvey Schiller, recently named WCW Executive Committee Chairman J.J. Dillon announces that Eric Bischoff no longer has any official authority within WCW.

May 2: The new Triple Threat is formed when Bam Bam Bigelow returns to ECW and, along with Shane Douglas and Chris Candido, attacks B. Mahoney.

May 5: The WWF airs an up-close and personal interview with Goldust in which he reveals his true identity to be Dustin Rhodes and speaks of his estranged relationship with father Dusty.

May 10: PG-13 ventures out of Memphis to face ECW tag team champions The Eliminators at the ECW Arena in Philadelphia.

May 11: Ken Shamrock makes his pay-per-view debut at the WWF's In Your House by forcing Big Van Vader to submit.

May 12: Rob Van Dam officially becomes "Mr. Monday Night" when he debuts alongside Jerry Lawler on Raw Is War. He defeats Matt Hardy in his first WWF outing. He does not sign a formal contract.

May 17: Terry Funk drops a guardrail on Stevie Richards' neck, temporarily paralyzing him. Richards is told to stay out of the ring for four to six weeks. He doesn't heed the warning.

Reggie White couldn't successfully make the leap to wrestling

May 18: Ric Flair returns to active competition at Slamboree in Charlotte, North Carolina, after being sidelined eight months with a torn left rotator cuff. He, Kevin Greene, and Roddy Piper defeat Kevin Nash, Scott Hall, and Syxx ... On the same card, NFL great Reggie White makes his wrestling debut, losing to Steve McMichael.

May 30: Stevie Richards suffers a broken vertebra during a tag team match that pitted him and Raven against The Eliminators. It would be his last bout before jumping to WCW.

June 6: Retired NFL star Jim Kelly helps "Diamond" Dallas Page beat Randy Savage in Buffalo with a pair of elbowdrops.

June 7: Raven loses a "loser-leaves-ECW" match to Tommy Dreamer at the ECW Arena ... On the same card, Jerry Lawler enters enemy territory when he, Sabu, Rob Van Dam, and Bill Alfonso attack Tommy Dreamer and nearly every ECW wrestler.

June 9: Ahmed Johnson shocks the wrestling world by joining former foe Faarooq in The Nation of Domination ... Bret Hart and Shawn Michaels brawl backstage before a Monday Night Raw broadcast. Michaels would temporarily leave the federation, vowing never to return.

June 15: Madusa loses a retirement match to WCW Women's champion Akira Hokuto at The Great American Bash.

June 16: Steve McMichael piledrives tag team partner Jeff Jarrett, thus ending their tempestuous relationship.

June 23: The long friendship of Ric Flair and Roddy Piper is shelved when the "Nature Boy" and his Horsemen attack the "Rowdy Scot."

June 30: Jeff Jarrett is officially fired from The Four Horsemen, surprisingly without incident.

July 1: PG-13 becomes a trio when Wolfie D and J.C. Ice sign Aldo Montoya (P.J. Walker).

July 11: King Kong Bundy attempts a kneedrop on Primo Carnera III at an independent show in Schenectady, New York. Bundy's weight causes two wooden support beams to snap and the ring sags. The match continues with Bundy winning.

July 13: Wrestling his first match in nearly four years Curt Hennig turns against partner Dallas Page during their Bash at the Beach match with the NWO's Scott Hall and Randy Savage ... On the same card, Dennis Rodman makes his wrestling debut when he and "Hollywood" Hogan lose the main event to Lex Luger and The Giant.

July 14: "Mr. Monday Night" Rob Van Dam is seen backstage at Nitro. Pictures are taken of him talking to the NWO's Vincent ... Mankind's alter ego, Dude Love, makes his debut in the WWF and helps Steve Austin win the WWF World tag team title.

July 19: The recently unretired George "The Animal" Steele (under the guidance of Capt. Lou Albano) defeats Mr. Ooh La La on an ECWA card in Wilmington, Delaware.

July 22: Raven returns to WCW ... Fritz Von Erich suffers a mild stroke. Upon further examination, doctors discover that he has lung cancer.

August 3: Steve Austin suffers spinal shock syndrome at SummerSlam, a result of a "tombstone" piledriver from Owen Hart. Austin would go on to win the Intercontinental title, but his career is put in jeopardy.

August 4: Shawn Michaels turns rulebreaker again after inadvertently helping Bret Hart win the WWF World title a day earlier at SummerSlam ... Sgt. Slaughter is named commissioner of the WWF by President Gorilla Monsoon ... Ted DiBiase returns to WCW to manage the Steiners in their battles with the NWO ... Sting is offered the first of what would be many opponents by J.J. Dillon, who tried to get Sting to return to competition in WCW.

August 11: Rick Rude returns to the WWF to serve as Shawn Michaels' "insurance man" ... Stevie Richards makes his WCW debut.

August 16: Japanese woman wrestler Plum Mariko, 29, dies as the result of head injuries suffered in a tag team match the previous day.

August 17: ECW returns to pay-per-view with Hardcore Heaven. The show is marred by technical problems and is considered a setback for the promotion.

The Tod Gordon "mole" incident was a headache for all involved

August 25: In an emotional speech, Arn Anderson publicly retires and turns over the Horsemen's "Enforcer" mantle to Curt Hennig.

September 5: Tod Gordon and ECW sever ties amid allegations that Gordon acted as a "mole" within the federation he founded to help supply talent to WCW.

September 10: Fritz Von Erich dies of cancer at age 68.

September 14: Curt Hennig turns against The Four Horsemen and joins the New World Order at Fall Brawl.

September 19: "Wildman" Marc Mero makes his return to the WWF seven months after undergoing reconstructive surgery on his left knee. His attitude is reflected in his new nickname, "Marvelous."

September 29: Ric Flair officially disbands The Four Horsemen.

October 5: Brian Pillman is found dead in his hotel room in Bloomington, Minnesota. He wrestled his last match the night before in St. Paul, where he lost to Goldust ... Kane, the Undertaker's purported brother, attacks his sibling at In Your House: Badd Blood.

October 20: Jeff Jarrett returns to the WWF on a live Raw.

October 26: Steve Austin returns to action with a victory over Hunter Hearst Helmsley ... Jacquelyn upends WCW TV champion Disco Inferno in a non-title bout at Halloween Havoc.

November 9: Bret Hart attacks Vince McMahon following his controversial WWF World title loss at Survivor Series to Shawn Michaels. Hart had just signed a three-year contract with rival WCW and was convinced that McMahon had colluded with referee Earl Hebner to cause his defeat.

November 17: Rick Rude shocks the wrestling world when he shows up with Hulk Hogan on Nitro 24 hours after appearing at a WWF show. On the same night, Rude would appear on a Raw episode taped the week before ... Vince McMahon appears in an interview on Raw and defends his decision that resulted in the Survivor Series controversy by concluding, "Bret screwed Bret."

November 19: The Hennepin County coroner releases a report that reveals Brian Pillman's death was a result of arteriosclerotic heart disease.

November 23: Scott Hall wins the 60-man battle royal in the main event of World War III.

November 30: Weeks after announcing his retirement from wrestling and his intentions to start a video game business, Stevie Richards returns to ECW at November to Remember, ECW's third pay-per-view.

December 8: The Road Warriors suffer their most humiliating moment as all the members of DeGeneration X, along with Jesse James and Billy Gunn, attack them and shave Hawk's mohawk.

December 14/15: The main events of WWF cards in Memphis, Tennessee, and Little Rock, Arkansas, are canceled when it is determined that the fans had become too unruly. The cancellations spur "fan riots," according to published reports.

December 15: Bret Hart makes his first WCW appearance when he accepts J.J. Dillon's invitation to referee the match between Eric Bischoff and Larry Zbyszko at Starrcade.

December 28: Sting emerged from an 18-month self-imposed exile to defeat Hulk Hogan at Starrcade. Hogan thought he pinned Sting early in the match, when referee Nick Patrick made the three-count. Bret Hart, who was a special referee that evening, claimed Patrick made a fast count and ordered a restart of the match. Hogan submitted to the "Scorpion" deathlock at 12:53.

Brian Pillman, all heart as a competitor, died of heart disease

STATISTICS

FOR PROFESSIONAL WRESTLERS

On the pages that follow, you'll find statistics—height, weight, hometown, year (or specific date) of pro debut, and birthday—for hundreds of professional wrestlers worldwide. This list does not purport to be 100 percent comprehensive in presenting every wrestler there's ever been, but it does strive to be 100 percent accurate with the information it does present. Many birthdays and pro debuts have been double- and triple-checked through cross-references. Even so, errors may have crept into the list, and there is information that may yet be added (such as determining the specific date of a pro debut, not just the year, or month and year). We invite anyone with additions and/or corrections to this list to send your information to: PWI ALMANAC, Box 1148, Ft. Washington, PA 19034. We'll be more than happy to update our list for next year's edition.

PRO WRESTLING ILLUSTRATED ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

In this section, you'll find a complete listing of all PWI Achievement Award winners. We've also provided a comprehensive listing of runners-up (which were first reported in 1976) for all awards.

Award winners were first presented annually in the pages of Pro Wrestling Illustrated effective with our March 1982 issue, and continue to appear in the March edition each year. Prior to that, awards appeared in Sports Review Wrestling (1980 awards in the March 1981 edition), Sports Review Wrestling Annual (1977-79 awards in Spring 1978, '79, and '80 editions), and Victory Sports Series Wrestling Annual and Yearbook editions (1972-76 awards in issues #4, 7, 11, 14, and 18).

TITLE HISTORIES

On the pages that follow, you'll find a comprehensive listing of champions for several of the sport's major titles, both current and defunct. The information we've gathered comes from our own computer and text files; reference sources such as several decades worth of newspaper reports and arena programs; and a superlative reference tool, Wrestling Title Histories, edited by Royal Duncan and Gary Will (for information, contact Royal Duncan, 7600 N. Galena Road, Peoria, Illinois 61615). Listings for currently active championships are updated through December 31, 1997.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹Buddy Rogers won a tournament in April 1963 in Rio de Janiero, Brazil, to become the first WWWF champion; he defeated Antonino Rocca in the final.
- ²Andre the Giant scored a controversial pinfall when Hulk Hogan lifted his shoulder at the two-count, but referee Earl Hebner (the twin brother of assigned referee Dave Hebner) continued the count. Andre's reign as champion lasted less than two minutes, as he then gave the belt to Ted DiBiase; WWF President Jack Tunney later ruled that transaction invalid, vacated the title, and ordered a tournament held for WrestleMania IV.
- ³This was a tournament final at WrestleMania IV.
- ⁴WWF President Jack Tunney was at ringside for the bout, but was knocked unconscious by the interfering Ric Flair. Undertaker's manager, Paul Bearer, also interfered by attempting to hit Hulk Hogan with his urn. Hogan ducked, and Bearer hit Undertaker instead. Hogan grabbed the urn, threw ashes in Undertaker's face, then pinned him. The following day, Tunney declared the title vacant, with a new champion to be determined at the January 19, 1992, Royal Rumble.
- ⁵Ric Flair won the title by winning the 30-man Royal Rumble.
- ⁶This was WrestleMania IX. Bret Hart had Yokozuna in the sharpshooter leglock. Mr. Fuji threw salt in Hart's eyes, enabling Yokozuna to make the pin. Hulk Hogan came to the ring, made an impromptu challenge to Yokozuna, and the two wrestled. Fuji tried throwing salt again during the match with Hogan, hit Yokozuna instead, and Hogan scored the title-winning pin in just 25 seconds. Total length of Yokozuna's reign: 2:07.
- ⁷After Shawn Michaels vacated the title due to a knee injury, Bret Hart outlasted Steve Austin, Big Van Vader, and The Undertaker in a four-way elimination match to win his fourth WWF championship.
- ⁸Upon orders from WWF head Vince McMahon, Earl Hebner declared that Bret Hart had submitted to Shawn Michaels' "sharpshooter," when, in fact, he hadn't.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹Pat Patterson won a September 1979 tournament in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, to become the first Intercontinental champion.
- ²This was a tournament final. The Ultimate Warrior was stripped of the title by WWF President Jack Tunney shortly after his WrestleMania VI WWF World title win over Hulk Hogan.
- ³Razor Ramon and Rick Martel were the last two competitors left in a 20-man battle royal to determine the top contenders to the title. Shawn Michaels was stripped of the title by WWF President Jack Tunney, who read a statement prior to the battle royal claiming the action was due to Michaels having failed to meet certain contractual obligations.
- ⁴The title had been held up earlier in the evening as the result of a controversial match between Jeff Jarrett and Bob Holly. This rematch filled the title vacancy.
- ⁵Shawn Michaels was forced to forfeit the title to Dean Douglas at this In Your house pay-per-view due to an injury that occurred a week earlier.
- ⁶The title had been held up earlier in the evening after a controversial match between Goldust and Vega; this was a rematch.
- ⁷This was a tournament final; Johnson had been forced to vacate the title after suffering a kidney injury in an altercation with Faarooq.
- ⁸This was a tournament final to fill the vacancy created when Steve Austin was unable to defend the title due to a spinal injury.
- ⁹Steve Austin forfeited the title to Rocky Maivia who was awarded the belt by WWF head Vince McMahon.

WWF WORLD TAG TEAM TITLE

(NOTE: The Worldwide Wrestling Federation was formed in 1963; the WWWF tag team title was known as the United States tag team title until 1967, when the title became vacant because Bruno Sammartino (whose tag team championship partner at the time was Spiros Arion) was unable to defend both the U.S. tag team title and the WWWF heavyweight title. From 1969 through 1971, the title was known as the WWWF International tag team title. In late-1971, the championship became known as the WWWF World tag team title.)

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹Antonino Rocca and Miguel Perez were the first U.S. tag team titlists.
- ²Buddy Rogers had left Johnny Valentine and the title; Valentine chose Chief Big Heart as his partner.
- ³Antonio Pugliese left the United States in June 1967; Spiros Arion chose Arnold Skaaland as his championship partner.
- ⁴Professor Tanaka and Mitsu Arakawa had won the belts in June 1969 in a tournament in Japan.
- ⁵The Mongols left the WWF in early-1971, bringing the International tag team belts with them.
- ⁶This is a tournament final. On November 12, 1971, "Crazy" Luke Graham & Tarzan Tyler defeated The Mongols, thus quieting any disputes that the Mongols remained uncrowned champions.
- ⁷In June 1975, Victor Rivera announced he was giving up his half of the title; Dominic DeNucci was allowed to choose a new partner, and chose "Irish" Pat Barrett.
- ⁸The Executioners were stripped of the title as the result of a match against Chief Jay Strongbow & Billy White Wolf that was televised on October 26, 1976, during which a third masked Executioner interfered.
- ⁹Chief Jay Strongbow & Billy White Wolf won a three-team tournament, defeating The Executioners and Tor Kamata & Nikolai Volkoff.
- ¹⁰This was a tournament final. Shortly after Chief Jay Strongbow & Billy White Wolf won the belts, Billy White Wolf suffered an injured neck during a match against Ken Patera; he and Strongbow gave up the belts.
- ¹¹Bob Backlund & Pedro Morales won the title in two straight falls of a best-of-three-falls bout in this Shea Stadium contest. Backlund and Morales gave the belts back to the WWF shortly after the win, since Backlund was WWF World heavyweight champion at the time. The title was declared vacant and an elimination tournament ordered.
- ¹²This was the final round of an elimination tournament.
- ¹³This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Diesel and Shawn Michaels split up at The Survivor Series, on November 23, 1994.
- ¹⁴Earlier in the day on September 25, WWF President Gorilla Monsoon stripped Diesel and Shawn Michaels of the title and returned the belts to Owen Hart and Yokozuna.
- ¹⁵This was a tournament final; The Smokin' Gunns had been forced to vacate the title several months earlier when Billy suffered a neck injury.
- ¹⁶This was a tournament final to fill the vacancy created when Shawn Michaels walked out of the WWF for a brief period.
- ¹⁷This was a four-way match that also featured The Road Warriors and The Godwinns.

NWA HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE

(NOTE: There are several key points to remember in viewing this list of NWA champions: (1) With the help of additional sources examined for this almanac, this listing contains many modifications, additions, and corrections from previous versions of the NWA title lineage printed in Pro Wrestling Illustrated or our sister publications. (2) The NWA that most fans know of today, the National Wrestling Alliance, was actually formed in 1948; a second NWA, the National Wrestling Association, came into being in 1929. (3) At various times throughout this century, the lineage of the title has been broken, most recently prior to Chris Candido's winning of the belt; special attention should be paid to the late-'20s and early-'30s, during which time the world title splintered into several factions and lineage remains fuzzy at best. As a result we've done our best to highlight major breaks from the main line, and reconnect the lineage where appropriate.)

Dusty Rhodes won the NWA World belt from Ric Flair at the Great American Bash in Greensboro on July 26, 1986.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹During the first few years of the century, George Hackenschmidt had won world championship tournaments in Italy, Germany, and England. As a result of this match, by defeating American champion Tom Jenkins in two straight falls, he became recognized as top champion in North America.
- ²George Hackenschmidt left the ring, refusing to return, and the referee awarded the title to Gotch, who retired in 1913; his last match was a victory over George Lurich on April 9.
- ³Charlie Cutler had defeated Henry Ordeman and Jesse Westegard in a tournament, and had laid claim to the world title.
- ⁴Earl Caddock was awarded the title by the referee when Joe Stecher refused to return to the ring after the second fall.
- ⁵As a result of this match, Dick Shikat became recognized as the first champion of the National Wrestling Association (NWA), a division of the National Boxing Association.
- ⁶Henry DeGlane won the title by disqualification.
- ⁷This match on Long Island, New York, was billed as a world championship match, and was designed to halt the controversy that was splitting the sport at the time. Jim Londos was subsequently stripped of his title for refusing to meet the winner of this bout. Ed "Strangler" Lewis later affirmed his claim on the title with an October 10, 1932, victory over Jack Sherry.
- ⁸Ed Don George had been claiming rights to the world title ever since he defeated Henry DeGlane in Boston in 1933. Danno O'Mahony, because of his victories over Jim Londos, Ed Don George, and Ed "Strangler" Lewis, became the closest thing to undisputed world champion at the time, representing a unification of sorts of the splintering of the world title that had taken place for several years.
- ⁹During his title reign, Ali Baba was disqualified in a match against Dave Lewin held in Newark, New Jersey. The State Athletic Commission reversed the match decision and allowed Ali Baba to keep the title. Soon thereafter, however, a rule change was made which stated that the title cannot change hands on a disqualification.
- ¹⁰The NWA decided to recognize Everett Marshall as champion because Steve Crusher Casey was out of the country and failed to defend the title on a regular basis.
- ¹¹The National Wrestling Alliance was organized in July 1948. At that particular time, Orville Brown was recognized as champion. Forced to retire due to injuries received in a November 11, 1949, auto accident, Brown relinquished his claim on the title. Lou Thesz was scheduled to meet Brown in a title match in St. Louis on November 25, 1949.
- ¹²Time of the match: 20:38. Ric Flair is (according to WCW officials in April 1992) the first WCW World champion; Sting, therefore, as of April 1992, is a one-time NWA and one-time WCW World champion. In September 1991, Flair signed with the WWF and the NWA title was declared vacant.
- ¹³This is a tournament final.
- ¹⁴The title was declared vacant in September 1993 when WCW withdrew from the NWA. It was renamed the WCW International title, held in the year that followed by Rick Rude, Hiroshi Hase, Rude again, Sting, then Flair again, but was finally abandoned when it was unified with the WCW World title at Clash of the Champions XXVII on June 23, 1994.
- ¹⁵This is a tournament final.
- ¹⁶The ownership of the National Wrestling Alliance name was in dispute at press time, with Dan Severn from one disputing group and Johnathan Holliday from the other disputing group laying claim to the heavyweight title.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹According to World Championship Wrestling, Ric Flair—who had been known worldwide as the NWA World champion—was acknowledged as the first WCW World champion during this reign.
- ²Ric Flair had been stripped of the WCW World title on July 1 after he could not come to a contractual agreement with WCW. Lex Luger and Barry Windham were determined to be the top contenders to the title.
- ³Randy Savage won the title in a 60-man battle royal at the World War III pay-per-view event. Hulk Hogan lost the title to The Giant on October 29 at Halloween Havoc due to a clause in the contract placed by Jimmy Hart that the belt could change hands on a disqualification; since the disqualification was due to Hart's interference, the title was declared vacant and put up for grabs in the World War III battle royal.
- ⁴Ric Flair won a triangle match against Sting and Lex Luger by countout earlier on the card to determine a challenger for Savage's title that night.

FOOTNOTES:

¹In December 1981, the Andersons were stripped of the title for being unable to defend the belts due to an October 1981 injury to Gene Anderson.

²This was a tournament final.

³This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Rick Steamboat announced his retirement on December 25, 1983.

⁴Though Ivan & Nikita Koloff won the belts, any pair of the trio of Ivan & Nikita Koloff and Krusher Khrushchev were allowed to defend the title.

⁵This was a tournament final. Mike Rotundo & Steve Williams were stripped of the title after their May 7, 1989, defense against The Road Warriors, where Dan Spivey and Kevin Sullivan interfere on their behalf by attacking guest referee Nikita Koloff.

⁶The Steiners are regarded as the last NWA World tag team champions and the first WCW World tag team champions. A tag team tournament to fill the vacancy was held July 12, 1992, at the Great American Bash. The tourney was won by Terry Gordy & Steve Williams. Co-recognition of the champions as NWA/WCW World tag team champions continued through September 1, 1993, when WCW withdrew from the NWA, and the NWA in turn withdrew recognition of the champions, at the time Arn Anderson and Paul Roma, who then became known strictly as WCW World tag team champions.

⁷This was a tournament final. Rick & Scott Steiner were stripped of the title in late-July 1991 when Scott was forced out of action with a torn left biceps muscle.

⁸Lord Steven Regal was allowed to substitute for the injured Brian Pillman.

⁹Syxx substituted for Kevin Nash, who was sidelined with a knee injury.

NWA/WCW U.S. HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE

(NOTE: While this particular version of the U.S. title was evidently initiated in 1975, our most reliable lineage information stretches back only to April 19, 1980.)

FOOTNOTES:

¹Wahoo McDaniel was stripped of the title in September 1981 after being injured by Abdullah the Butcher. A tournament was ordered to fill the title vacancy.

²This match was a tournament final.

³Sgt. Slaughter was awarded the title when Wahoo McDaniel was unable to show up for a title match as the result of having sustained an injured left leg at the hands of Magnificent Muraco and Roddy Piper.

⁴Greg Valentine was awarded the title when the match was halted due to a bloody gash over Roddy Piper's left ear that rendered him unable to continue.

⁵The title was held up and vacated after this bout due to the interference of Tully Blanchard, who hit Rick Steamboat in the head with a chair.

⁶This match was a tournament final.

⁷This match was the final bout in a best-of-seven series to fill the vacancy created in May 1986 when Magnum T.A. was stripped of the title for attacking NWA President Bob Geigel.

⁸This match was a tournament final. Dusty Rhodes had been stripped of the title in April 1988 for hitting NWA President Jim Crockett with a baseball bat.

⁹This match was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Lex Luger won the WCW World title on July 14, 1991.

¹⁰This match had been intended as a bout to determine the number-one contender to Rick Rude's title. When Rude was stripped of the belt in December 1992 for failing to defend it (he was injured), the bout instead became a contest to determine a new champion.

¹¹This match was to fill the title vacancy. The title had been declared vacant in May 1993 as the result of a controversial double-pin situation between Dustin Rhodes and Rick Rude.

¹²Steve Austin had been awarded the title earlier in the evening via forfeit when Steamboat, his original opponent for the night, was unable to wrestle due to a back injury.

¹³Big Van Vader is stripped of the title in early-April 1995 for multiple violent offenses.

¹⁴This was a tournament final to fill the title vacancy.

¹⁵The title was declared vacant in September after Flair suffered a shoulder injury.

¹⁶This was a tournament final to fill the title vacancy.

FOOTNOTES:

¹This was the final round of a tournament to determine the NWA television champion. Dick Slater's U.S. title, of course, was not on the line in this match. Also note that in a semifinal encounter vs.

Assassin #2, Mark Youngblood put feet up on middle ropes to gain the pinfall.

²This was a tournament final. The title was declared vacant when Dusty Rhodes was unable to defend the belt due to an injury.

³This was a "first blood" match at Starrcade '86.

⁴The belt had been held up since July 23, 1989, when Sting pinned The Great Muta, but tapes later showed that Muta's shoulders were off the mat.

⁵This was a best-of-three-falls match.

⁶This was Clash of the Champions XX. It was also a no-DQ match with Paul E. Dangerously locked in a cage suspended above the ring. Rick Steamboat won with a flying bodypress off the top rope.

⁷This was the final round of a tournament to determine a new champion. Scott Steiner was stripped of the title when he went to the WWF in November 1992.

FOOTNOTES:

¹Jimmy Snuka and Wildman Bellomo won separate battle royals to advance to a match in which the winner was awarded the first ECW heavyweight title.

²Shane Douglas won the title by forfeit when Tito Santana did not appear for the match.

³Shane Douglas pinned Terry Funk in an eight-man tag team match; due to a prematch stipulation, the title changed hands. Also, on August 27, 1994, Eastern Championship Wrestling was renamed Extreme Championship Wrestling.

⁴The Sandman defeated previous champion Mikey Whipwreck and Steve Austin in a triangle match for the title.

⁵Stevie Richards substituted for Raven in a tag team match that had as a stipulation that if he got pinned, Raven would lose the belt.

⁶Shane Douglas was victorious over both Sabu and Terry Funk in this three-way elimination match.

FOOTNOTES:

¹This is a four-team tournament final.

²This is a tournament final to fill the vacancy created when The Suicide Blonds were stripped of the belts in July 1993.

³This was a win via forfeit.

⁴Shane Douglas was allowed to substitute for the injured Johnny Gunn. After the bout, he turned against Tommy Dreamer.

⁵This was a three-team match that also included The Gangstas.

⁶2 Cold Scorpio defeated Rocco Rock in a singles bout; due to a prematch stipulation, the tag team belts were on the line.

⁷Mikey Whipwreck defeated 2 Cold Scorpio in a singles bout; due to a prematch stipulation, he won both the TV and tag team belts. Whipwreck chose Cactus Jack to be his partner.

⁸John Kronus defended the title solo, since his partner in The Eliminators, Perry Saturn, was still sidelined with a knee injury.

⁹The Dudleys were awarded the belts when Mustafa Saed was not able to compete due to an injury.

¹⁰Candido & Storm also defeated B. Mahoney & Axl Rotten in a three-way match for the title.

John Kronus' aerial accumen helped he and New Jack beat The Dudleys for the ECW tag team title on September 20, 1997.

¹This was a tournament final.

²This was a tournament final; the title had been declared vacant earlier in 1987 when Tatsumi Fujinami and Kengo Kimura split up their team.

³IWGP officials declared the title vacant when Scott Steiner failed to appear for a scheduled title defense. Rick Steiner was allowed to choose a partner and wrestle Hiroshi Hase & The Great Muta for the vacant title.

⁴This match was held to fill the title vacancy created when Hiroshi Hase & The Great Muta stepped down from the championship shortly after Muta won the IWGP heavyweight title on May 3, 1995.

⁵The title was declared vacant a few days prior to this bout when it was determined that Masa Chono & Hiroyoshi Tenzan couldn't defend the championship on this date due to personal reasons (Chono's father passed away).

Vader & Bam Bam Bigelow defeated Hiroshi Hase & The Great Muta for the IWGP International tag belts on March 1, 1992.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹August 1960 saw the formation of the American Wrestling Association. Title recognition was given to Verne Gagne who, at the time, was generally recognized as the uncrowned champion in wrestling.
- ²It was later discovered that Mr. M was Dr. Bill Miller.
- ³Verne Gagne held the title until his retirement on May 10, 1981.
- ⁴Nick Bockwinkel was awarded the title due to Verne Gagne's retirement, his No. 1 ranking at the time, and his status as former champion.

- ⁵Nick Bockwinkel was scheduled to challenge Stan Hansen for the belt. Hansen left the arena, and it was determined by AWA President Stanley Blackburn that if he did not return by the end of the last match on the card, the title would be awarded to Bockwinkel by default. It was.
- ⁶The title was officially awarded to Curt Hennig on May 13, 1987, when, by a 4-2 vote, an AWA review board determined through videotape replay that there was no evidence Larry Zbyszko illegally aided Hennig.
- ⁷This was a battle royal victory; Larry Zbyszko last eliminated Tom Zenk to win the title. Jerry Lawler had been stripped of the title by AWA President Stanley Blackburn for missing seven mandatory title defenses in AWA territories.
- ⁸Larry Zbyszko was stripped of the title on December 12, 1990, when he left the AWA for WCW. Shortly thereafter, the AWA folded.

FOOTNOTES:

¹Tiny Mills & Stan Kowalski were NWA International and NWA World tag team champions, and held the belts when the latter title was renamed the AWA World tag team title.

²Len Montana's leg was broken in a March 1961 bout; Hardboiled Haggerty chose Gene Kiniski as he replacement partner.

³Hardboiled Haggerty and Gene Kiniski had split up while champions; Haggerty chose Bob Geigel as his new partner.

⁴This was the final of a nine-team tournament. The title had been declared vacant earlier in the month when Otto Von Krupp was injured.

⁵Larry Hennig's leg had been broken some time before this match by Verne Gagne, forcing Harley Race to choose a replacement partner.

⁶Red Bastien chose Crusher as his new partner after Hercules Cortez was killed in an automobile accident in Minnesota on July 23, 1971.

⁷Pat Patterson and Ray Stevens were awarded the belts by AWA President Stanley Blackburn when Jim Brunzell injured himself in a softball game and the championship team of Brunzell and Greg Gagne were unable to defend the belts.

⁸Verne Gagne was vacationing in Europe at the time of the bout; Adonis and Ventura were awarded the belts by default.

⁹Doug Somers was allowed to substitute for Boris Zukhov, who had moved from the AWA to the WWF.

¹⁰This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant on September 18, 1989, when Ken Patera was injured by Wayne Bloom and Mike Enos.

¹¹D.J. Peterson & The Trooper were the last champions. The AWA folded shortly thereafter.

FOOTNOTES:

¹Dory Funk Jr. was awarded the title via forfeit when Barry Windham, injured in an auto accident, was unable to defend the title.

²This match was the last round of a title tournament. Bruiser Brody had been stripped of the title when an August 24, 1982, match between Brody and Brian Blair reached an irresponsible level of brutality.

³This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Mike Graham was injured and unable to defend the title for 30 days.

⁴This is a tournament final. Barry Windham had been stripped of the title when he left Florida to compete in Japan.

⁵This is a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant several weeks earlier when Hercules Hernandez left Florida to compete in the WWF.

⁶This match was to determine the champion after the title had been held up following a match in which Ron Bass used chloroform against Barry Windham.

⁷Mike Rotundo gave the title belt to Rick Steiner in December 1988. He was subsequently stripped of the title, and the championship was abandoned later that month.

FOOTNOTES:

¹This is a tournament final.

²Paul Orndorff relinquished the championship belt on television in Atlanta on July 31, 1982. He claimed defending the belt took too much time away from preparations for NWA World title matches with Ric Flair.

³This was the final round of a round-robin tournament.

⁴Killer Brooks defeated Paul Orndorff in the scheduled title match. Larry Zbyszko bought the title from Brooks for $25,000. Zbyszko was subsequently stripped of the title, on April 30, 1983. A tournament was ordered to determine the new champion.

⁵This is the final round of a title tournament; see note 4, above.

⁶Brad Armstrong masqueraded as Mr. R and was unmasked by Ted DiBiase, who thought it would be Tommy Rich under the mask. While Rich waved at DiBiase from Gordon Solie's broadcast podium, a shocked DiBiase became the victim of Armstrong's pin.

⁷Wahoo McDaniel was defeated by Nikita Koloff in a match to unify the National and U.S. titles, on September 28, 1986 in Atlanta. See U.S. title chart (page 65) for more information.

FOOTNOTES:

¹This was the final of a tournament that had begun on March 18, 1972.

²This match was to fill the title vacancy created on December 6, 1972, when a match between champion Harley Race and challenger Johnny Valentine ended in double-disqualification.

³This was a tournament final. The title had been vacated following Harley Race's defeat of Ric Flair for the NWA World title.

⁴This title was abandoned roughly six months after Harley Race's victory.

FOOTNOTES:

¹This was the main event of the SuperClash II pay-per-view. The match was stopped due to Kerry Von Erich bleeding too heavily. Jerry Lawler, who held the AWA World title at the time, unified that title with Von Erich's World Class heavyweight title; the unified championship became known as the USWA heavyweight title.

²This was the final bout in a 21-man tournament. The Snowman had been stripped of the title on August 27 after he was injured and could not defend the belt within the required 30-day period.

³This was a Survivor Series final, an eight-man match that saw Jerry Lawler pin Tatanka in a bout pitting Lawler, Jeff Jarrett, & The Moondogs against Tatanka, Tommy Rich, & The Dog Catchers.

⁴This was a battle royal to fill the title vacancy created when Randy Savage left the USWA just a few days earlier.

⁵Jerry Lawler forfeited the title because he was injured by Sid Vicious earlier on the card and could not appear for the scheduled match.

⁶This was a tournament final; Jarrett had to vacate the title because of a back injury.

⁷The Memphis-based promotion, in the midst of legal entanglements, ceased running cards in the fall of 1997.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ Jeff Jarrett & Matt Borne are recognized as the first USWA tag team champions; the title was previously known as the World Class tag team title, but an August 18, 1989, victory by Eric Embry over P.Y. Chu-Hi for the heavyweight title ended months of legal wrangling and officially changed the name of World Class to the USWA.

² This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Matt Borne lost a loser-leaves-town match.

³ Steve Doll was unable to make it to the arena for the title defense, so Rex King defended the title in a handicap bout.

⁴ Chuck Casey was substituting for Don Harris.

⁵ This was a tournament final. The Moondogs were stripped of the title due to Spike being injured.

⁶ Brian Christopher was forced to defend the title alone, having been abandoned by Jeff Jarrett before the match.

⁷ This was a match to award the title that had been held up on January 3, 1994, following a controversial hospital elimination match between Far Two Wild and PG-13.

⁸ This was a tournament final. The title had been vacated on April 16, 1994, following a controversial bout between The Moondogs and Billy Travis & Don Bass.

⁹ The title had been held up on August 15, 1994, after champions PG-13 and Dante & The Great Mephisto battle to a simultaneous double-pin. Dante & Mephisto won the immediate rematch.

¹⁰ This was a tournament final. The title had been held up following a controversial match between The Heavenly Bodies and PG-13 on August 21, 1995, in Memphis, Tennessee.

¹¹ This was the finals of a tournament to fill a title vacancy created when Dundee was forced to leave the USWA.

¹² The title had been held up after a controversial match between the two teams nine days earlier; this was a rematch.

¹³ The Grimm Twins wrestle as The Bruise Brothers in the USWA.

¹⁴ The title was held up following a controversial match between the two teams.

PROFESSIONAL WRESTLING: YEAR-BY-YEAR

In this section, we provide an overview of some of the more memorable dates in wrestling history, including unusual incidents, events, and other fascinating material related to the development of the sport and the public appearances of the stars over the years. To assemble this section, we pored through decades of newspaper clippings, magazine articles, published books, Pro Wrestling Illustrated Weekly newsletters, and much, much more. Our thanks to wrestling historian J. Michael Kenyon for his valuable contributions this year. If you have newspaper clippings, magazine articles, or other solid information you feel would be an asset to this year-by-year overview of the sport in next year's PWI Almanac, please send them to PWI Almanac, P.O. Box 1168, Fort Washington, PA 19034. This section does not include a rundown of 1997 (see pages 6-15).

1873

Wrestling's first masked wrestler enters the ring, in Paris. He is known simply as The Masked Wrestler.

1877

February 6: William Muldoon wins the Greco-Roman championship from French champion Christol in two straight falls of 10 and 17 minutes. He also wins about $2,000 in side bets.

1878

April 27: Frank Gotch is born on a farm near Humboldt, IA.

July 20: George Hackenschmidt, later nicknamed "The Russian Lion," is born in Dorpat, Russia; his mother is Swedish, his father is German.

1880

January 19: William Muldoon defeats Thebaud Bauer at Gilmore's Gardens (later site of Madison Square Garden) in a best-of-three-falls match to emerge with the Greco-Roman championship. The bout draws more than 3,000 fans.

1887

Wrestler William Muldoon faces off against boxer John L. Sullivan before a crowd of about 2,000 in a baseball park in Gloucester,

MA. According to boxing and wrestling historian Nat Fleischer, Muldoon slammed Sullivan, and "the crowd rushed in and stopped the combat."

March 14: Evan "Strangler" Lewis (the original Strangler Lewis) beats Joe Acton in Chicago, IL, to win the American Catch-as-Catch Can championship.

1893

March 2: Evan "Strangler" Lewis defeats Ernest Roeber in New Orleans, LA, to unify the American Catch-as-Catch Can and American Greco-Roman championships. The match is a best of five falls with alternating catch-as-catch can and Greco-Roman falls.

1895

April 20: Martin "Farmer" Burns defeats Evan "Strangler" Lewis, three falls to two, in Chicago to capture the American heavyweight championship.

1896

September: George Hackenschmidt makes his wrestling debut.

1897

January 2: Jim Londos is born Chris Theophelos in Argos, Greece. The youngest of 13 children, Londos' father was a Greek amateur champion.

October 26: Dan McLeod beats Martin "Farmer" Burns in Indianapolis, IN, to capture the American heavyweight championship.

1899

April 2: Frank Gotch makes his pro debut, defeating Marshall Green in Humboldt, IA.

1901

The first tag team matches are held in the United States, in San Francisco.

November 7: Tom Jenkins defeats Dan McLeod to win the American heavyweight title.

1902

December 26: Dan McLeod defeats Tom Jenkins in Worcester, MA, to regain the American heavyweight championship. Jenkins took the first fall in 59:00, while McLeod came back to win the second fall at 24:00. Jenkins forfeited the match and the title 20 minutes into the third fall due to a leg injury (later revealed to be blood poisoning).

1903

February 22: Tom Jenkins defeats Frank Gotch in Cleveland, OH, in the first meeting of the dominant American wrestlers of the era.

April 3: Tom Jenkins defeats Dan McLeod in Buffalo, NY, in straight falls (1:17:00 and 14:30) to regain the American heavyweight championship.

1904

January 27: Frank Gotch beats Tom Jenkins in Bellingham, WA, to win the American heavyweight championship for the first time. Gotch took the first fall by pinfall, while Jenkins was disqualified in the second fall for fouling Gotch.

1905

February 2: Tom Jenkins is heavily criticized by his hometown press for running out of gas late in his unsuccessful title challenge against American heavyweight champion Frank Gotch in Cleveland. Jenkins took the first fall, with Gotch sweeping the last two.

March 15: Tom Jenkins defeats Frank Gotch at Madison Square Garden to regain the American heavyweight championship. After splitting the first two falls, Jenkins dug down and took the third fall in 10:31 to win the title for a record third time.

May 5: World Greco-Roman champion George Hackenschmidt thoroughly dominates American heavyweight champion Tom Jenkins in two straight falls at Madison Square Garden in a match to crown the World Catch-as-Catch-Can heavyweight champion. The match is the origin of the World heavyweight title in the United States.

May 19: In the crowning moment of his career, Tom Jenkins comes back two weeks after his thrashing at the hands of Hackenschmidt to defeat Frank Gotch at Madison Square Garden to retain his American heavyweight championship. The match, arguably the most epic of the decade, sees Jenkins take the first fall in 1:27:57, and Gotch evening it up by taking the second fall in 36:27. Jenkins came back to overpower Gotch to take the third fall at 11:10. A battered and exhausted Gotch had to be carried from the ring by his seconds.

May 23: Frank Gotch defeats Tom Jenkins to regain the American heavyweight championship. Jenkins takes the first fall in 26:00, but

Frank Gotch

Gotch finishes strongly to take the last two falls in 14:00 and 17:00.

December 1: Arguably the biggest upset in pro wrestling history sees Fred Beell, outweighed by 50 pounds, beat Frank Gotch in New Orleans, LA, to win the American heavyweight championship. Beell won the third fall by throwing Gotch over the edge of mat, with Gotch striking his head on the floor. When the dazed Gotch was returned to the ring, Beell finished him off fast to take the title.

December 17: Frank Gotch beats Fred Beell in two one-sided falls in Kansas City, MO, to regain the American heavyweight championship and record-tying third time.

April 3: Frank Gotch beats George Hackenschmidt at Chicago's Dexter Park Pavilion to win the World heavyweight title in a match that was three years in the making. The match was highly controversial, with Hackenschmidt claiming Gotch doused himself in oil or other substances to make himself impossible to grasp. In addition, all newspaper reports showed Gotch refusing to lock up and liberally using fouls and roughhouse tactics to damage the champion. After the ref turned a deaf ear to his appeals, Hackenschmidt finally quit the match after two hours and three minutes. The referee ruled Hackenschmidt had forfeited and awarded the title to Gotch.

1909

April 14: Frank Gotch, in his first big U.S. match following a U.K. tour, defeats Bulgarian wrestler Yussiff Mahmout in two straight falls (8:00, 9:10) at Chicago's Dexter Park Pavilion.

November 25: Frank Gotch beats Stanislaus Zbyszko in a non-title match in Buffalo, NY. It's their first meeting, and the buzz begins for a title match between the two.

1910

June 1: In what may have been his crowning achievement, Frank Gotch defeats Stanislaus Zbyszko in the first fall of a Chicago contest in 6.4 seconds! Gotch went on to take the second fall in 27:33 to retain the World title.

1911

September 4: Three years after their controversial first match, Frank Gotch and George Hackenschmidt wrestle each other at Comiskey Park in Chicago. Gotch dominates to take straight falls over Hackenschmidt, who severely injured his knee in training for the match. The live gate of $87,053 (tickets range from $1 to $10) is the biggest ever at the time.

1913

April 1: Frank Gotch announces his retirement after beating George Lurich in Kansas City, MO.

1915

July 4: Joe Stecher beats Charlie Cutler in Omaha, NE, to become the first widely recognized World heavyweight champion, after the retirement of Frank Gotch.

October 20: In the first World title meeting between the two wrestlers who would dominate the era, Joe Stecher beats Ed "Strangler" Lewis in Evansville, IN, to retain the title. Stecher won after 2:03:00 of the first fall when Lewis was unable to continue after being driven out of the ring and hitting his head on the floor.

November 1915 to January 1916: An international tournament is held at the Manhattan Opera House featuring many of the top stars of the era. Among the wrestlers are Ed "Strangler" Lewis, Alex Aberg, Waldek Zbyszko, B.F. Roller, and Charles Cutler. The talk of the tournament is The Masked Marvel, a hooded wrestler who came out of the crowd and demanded to be entered. The promoters finally relent, allowing Marvel to debut on December 9. Aberg eventually beats Zbyszko in the tourney final, while Lewis finishes in third place.

January 27: Joe Stecher retains the World title by beating The Masked Marvel in straight falls at Madison Square Garden. The Marvel was revealed to be Mort Henderson.

July 5: Joe Stecher and Ed "Strangler" Lewis wrestle to a legendary five-hour draw in Omaha, NE. Lewis was soundly hooted by the crowd for wrestling defensively and making no attempts to go on the offense against the champion. Some fans at points showered the ring with cushions to show their displeasure.

July 18: Frank Gotch fractures his leg in an exhibition match with Bob Managoff Sr. at a Sells-Floto Circus performance in Kenosha, Wisconsin; the great champion would never wrestle again.

1917

Jim Londos makes his professional debut.

April 9: Joe Stecher forfeits the World title to Earl Caddock in Omaha, NE. Stecher won the first fall in 1:22:05. Caddock evened the match by taking the second fall in 1:40:10. Stecher claimed he wasn't pinned and was so livid that he refused to wrestle the third fall.

1920

January 30: After beating Waldek Zbyszko and Ed "Strangler" Lewis in late-1919 to earn a title shot, Joe Stecher regains the World title by beating Earl Caddock in 2:05:30 at Madison Square Garden.

December 13: Ed "Strangler" Lewis beats Joe Stecher in 1:41:56 at the 71st Regiment

Antonino Rocca

Armory in New York to win the World title for the first time.

1921

May 10: Stan Hansen defeats Hulk Hogan in Tokyo in New Japan's annual MSG Tournament.

June 7: Terry Taylor beats Les Thorton in Roanoke, VA, to win the NWA World junior heavyweight title. Thorton would regain the belt two weeks later in the same city.

September 23: In Tokyo, Andre the Giant and Stan Hansen wrestle to a wild, out-of-control no-contest in one of the most anticipated matches of the year.

December 13: In the one of the biggest stories of the year in Japan, Stan Hansen secretly jumps from New Japan to All-Japan. Brody makes a surprise appearance, seconding Bruiser Brody and Jimmy Snuka in their match against Dory Funk Jr. and Terry Funk in the finals of All-Japan's annual tag tournament. Hansen interferes in the end to help Brody and Snuka win, setting off a melee that sets the tone for the run of violence Brody and Hansen would cause over the next two years as a team.

December 21: Andre the Giant is the subject of a profile in Sports Illustrated; up to that time, it is the longest profile of any individual athlete ever published by SI. The article is later condensed for Reader's Digest's June 1982 issue, and reprinted in its entirety in the Summer 1987 edition of Wrestling 87.

1982

Steve Williams, at the time a senior in college, loses in the NCAA finals to Bruce Baumgartner by a score of 4-3; Baumgartner would go on to compete in the 1984 Olympics and capture the gold medal in wrestling ... WTBS' Georgia Championship Wrestling is renamed World Championship Wrestling.

May: The original Tiger Mask scores an amazing double by winning both the NWA and WWF versions of the junior heavyweight title on consecutive nights. First, on May 25 in Shizuoka, Japan, Tiger beats Les Thorton to win the NWA title. On the following night in Osaka, he beats Black Tiger to win the WWF title.

June: Vince McMahon Jr. and TitanSports purchases Capitol Wrestling Corporation from his father and other shareholders.

June 28: In one of the most memorable and dramatic moments in Madison Square Garden wrestling history, Jimmy Snuka performs his "superfly" flying bodypress from the top of the steel cage in a match against WWF World champion Bob Backlund. He misses, and Backlund escapes from the cage with his title reign intact.

July 4: WWF World champion Bob Backlund battles NWA World champion Ric Flair in Atlanta's Omni. The bout ends in a double-disqualification after about 20 minutes of furious action.

July 29: Comedian Andy Kaufman and Memphis mainstay Jerry Lawler appear on the Late Night With David Letterman show. Kaufman, wearing a neck brace due to an injury sustained in a match against "The King," gets into an obscenity-laced shouting match with Lawler, then throws Letterman's coffee in Lawler's face. The confrontation makes headlines on the entertainment pages of newspapers nationwide.

October 8: In a six-man tag bout in Koichi, Japan, Riki Choshu turns on partners Antonio Inoki and Tatsumi Fujinami. The turn marks the birth of the landmark Ishingun vs. Seikigun feud that flames all across Japan for the next two years as Choshu's Seikigun group rebels against the established New Japan powers, Inoki and Fujinami's Ishingun group.

December 25: Kerry Von Erich battles NWA World champion Ric Flair in a steel cage in Dallas with Freebird Michael Hayes serving as special referee. When Von Erich and Flair are both dazed after a mid-ring collision, Hayes places Von Erich on top of the champion. Von Erich won't accept the title that way, and Hayes becomes outraged, calling Von Erich an "idiot." As Von Erich leaves the cage, Hayes' Freebird partner, Terry Gordy, slams the cage door shut on Von Erich's head. That act ignited the Freebird-Von Erichs war that subsequently embroiled Texas for nearly five years.

March 20: Larry Zbyszko pays Killer Brooks $25,000 for the NWA National title. NWA President Bob Geigel strips Zbyszko of the title.

June 2: Hulk Hogan defeats Antonio Inoki to become the first IWGP heavyweight champion.

July 15: In between runs as NWA World champion, Ric Flair beats David Von Erich in the finals of a 20-man tournament to be crowned the Missouri champion. The title became vacant when Missouri champion Harley Race beat Flair for the NWA World title on June 10.

October 23: The Tommy Rich-Buzz Sawyer feud, which has been raging for more than 18 months, comes to a bloody climax at "The Last Battle Of Atlanta" cage match in The Omni. Rich defeats Sawyer, but hardly looks like a winner.

November 24: The first Starrcade card is held, in Greensboro, NC. A crowd of 15,447 in the Greensboro Coliseum is joined by about 30,000 fans in closed-circuit locations throughout the Mid-Atlantic region. In the main event,

Ric Flair captures his second NWA World heavyweight title from Harley Race.

January 22: Two-time NWA World champion and pro football Hall of Famer Bronko Nagurski, 75, is given the honor of tossing the coin at the start of Super Bowl XVIII in Tampa, Florida. The Los Angeles Raiders win the toss and the game, defeating the Washington Redskins, 38-9.

OTHER CROWDS AND CARDS OF NOTE

The Tokyo Dome has become the undisputed Mecca of wrestling, regularly drawing crowds that would make American football teams envious. On February 10, 1990, 63,900 people paid $3.2-million to see Antonio Inoki & Seiji Sakaguchi come out of retirement to defeat Shinya Hashimoto & Masa Chono. On January 4, 1993, 63,500 paid approximately $3.5-million as Genichiro Tenryu defeated Riki Choshu. Two years later, on January 4, 1995, 62,500 paid approximately $4.8-million when IWGP heavyweight champion Shinya Hashimoto defeated Kensuke Sasaki. That attendance mark was equalled on January 4, 1997, when Hashimoto defeated Choshu. About four months later, on April 12, 60,500 fans came to the Dome to see Naoya Ogawa, making his pro debut, defeat Hashimoto with a sleeperhold. On April 2, 1995, 13 promotions in Japan got together for a cooperative card that drew about 60,000 fans. Comparable crowds were on hand in the Dome on January 4, 1994 (main event: Genichiro Tenryu pinned Antonio Inoki), January 4, 1992 (main event: Riki Choshu pinned Tatsumi Fujinami), November 29, 1989 (main event: Akira Maeda defeated former Olympic judo medalist Willie Wilhelm via submission), and April 24, 1989 (1972 Olympic judo medalist Shota Chochoshivili defeated Antonio Inoki in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round bout).

The Fukuoka Dome in Japan has also been the site of some significant crowds, most recently 55,000 on May 3, 1993 (main event: Antonio Inoki & Tatsumi Fujinami defeat Riki Choshu & Genichiro Tenryu). And the Osaka Dome drew a sellout 53,000 fans on May 3, 1997, to see Hashimoto avenge his loss to Ogawa of three weeks prior.

The Triple Mania event on April 30, 1993, was headlined by a retirement bout that saw Cien Caras defeat Konnan via countout. It drew about 48,000 fans to Plaza de Toros in Mexico City, Mexico.

In the United States, some significant attendance figures include: 62,167 at the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis, Indiana, on April 5, 1992, for WrestleMania VIII ... 60,525 at the Alamodome in San Antonio on January 19, 1997, for the WWF's Royal Rumble (main event: Shawn Michaels beat "Psycho" Sid Vicious) ... 43,517 at Texas Stadium in Irving, Texas, on May 6, 1984, to see Kerry Von Erich capture the NWA World title from Ric Flair ... approximately 42,000 at Shea Stadium in New York on June 25, 1976, to see Bruno Sammartino defeat Stan Hansen, Andre the Giant defeat boxer Chuck Wepner, and the closed-circuit broadcast from Japan of Muhammad Ali vs. Antonio Inoki ... 40,671 at Shea Stadium in New York on August 9, 1980, to see Bruno Sammartino defeat Larry Zbyszko in a cage match, and Andre the Giant pin Hulk Hogan.

Prior to what many term "the modern era" of pro wrestling, a card at Chicago's Comiskey Park drew 38,622 fans to see Buddy Rogers defeat Pat O'Connor for the NWA World title; the live gate of $141,345 was a record at the time. And on September 20, 1934, 35,265 fans flocked to Wrigley Field in Chicago to see NWA World champion Jim Londos defend his title against Ed "Strangler" Lewis.

Finally, there has been a often-reported (but never verified) account of 100,000 flocking to Athens Olympic Stadium in 1934 to see Jim Londos defend his world title against a Russian challenger; reportedly, 30,000 fans were turned away from the event.

WRESTLING SUPERCARDS

In a sport that has no beginning and ending points within a calendar year, the supercard has often served as the culmination of a year's worth of activity, the one card on which lasting feuds are brought to a conclusion. Just what constitutes a supercard is a matter of interpretation. The size of the venue, the use of wrestlers who normally do not compete in the geographic area in which the card is held, the number of high-level championship matches—these are all considerations. The mere fact that a promoter touts his card as a supercard (e.g. any David Von Erich Parade of Champions after number three) does not necessarily make it so. One thing that is definitely so: The concept of the supercard did not begin with the advent of pay-per-view.
